

A Journey to Three Global Festivals

Hello, everyone! I'm Dana, a cultural traveler. Welcome to my special photo exhibition. Over the past ten years, I have traveled to hidden corners of the world to capture the vivid moments of human traditions.

Today, I want to take you on a journey through three incredible festivals. Each photo tells a unique story of how people express their joy, history, and passion.

[ Verona, Italy — Verona Opera Festival ]

Last summer, I traveled to Italy to experience the famous Verona Opera Festival.

The performances take place in a 2,000-year-old Roman outdoor theater. At night, the ancient stone building completely transforms into a romantic stage.

Thousands of people sit on the stone steps, holding small candles in their hands. Operatic singers perform without any microphones, filling the giant open space with their powerful voices. I sat there in silence for hours, listening to the beautiful melodies under the starry sky.

[ Calgary, Canada — Calgary Stampede ]

My next stop was Calgary, Canada, for the world-famous Calgary Stampede. This exciting festival celebrates the rich history of western cowboy culture. Because they wanted to show off their incredible skills, brave cowboys from all over the world gather to compete in dangerous rodeo events. Holding onto wild horses with only one hand, they try to survive the rough rides for eight seconds. Excited fans filled the big stadium all afternoon. They were cheering out loud for their favorite modern cowboys.

SPAIN
La Tomatina

[ Buñol, Spain — La Tomatina ]

Finally, let's look at this passionate picture from Buñol, Spain. Every August, this small, quiet town holds a massive food fight festival called La Tomatina. Expecting a day of wild fun, over twenty thousand people pack the narrow streets in white T-shirts. Trucks arrive and dump tons of ripe tomatoes on the ground. People throw the squashed fruits at each other for an hour, turning the entire town into a bright red sea.

Don't just look at my photos—come and experience this incredible energy yourself!

Read and Describe

[Italy]

example)

+

=

→ Operatic singers perform without any microphones.

→ Operatic singers fill the giant open space with their powerful voices.

→ I sat there in silence for hours.

→ I listened to the beautiful melodies under the starry sky.

Read and Describe

[Canada]

→ They hold onto wild horses with only one hand.

→ They try to survive the rough rides for eight seconds.

[Spain]

→ Over twenty thousand people expect a day of wild fun.

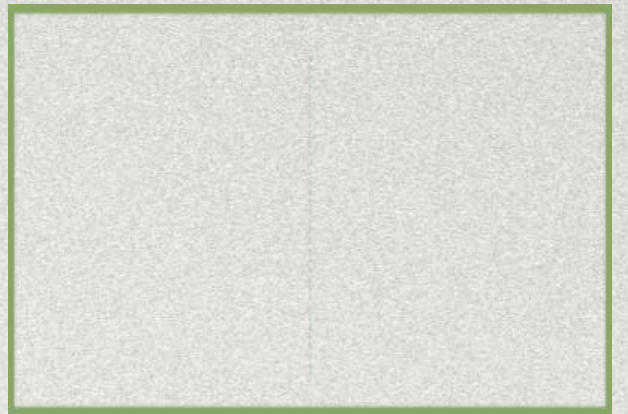

→ Over twenty thousand people pack the narrow streets in white T-shirts.

→ People throw the squashed fruits at each other for an hour.

→ People turn the entire town into a red sea.

Introduce
our festival

Korean Festival :

Group :

A large, empty rectangular box with a solid black border, intended for drawing or writing.Five horizontal lines spaced evenly, intended for writing.A large, empty rectangular box with a solid black border, intended for drawing or writing.Five horizontal lines spaced evenly, intended for writing.A large, empty rectangular box with a solid black border, intended for drawing or writing.Five horizontal lines spaced evenly, intended for writing.A large, empty rectangular box with a solid black border, intended for drawing or writing.Five horizontal lines spaced evenly, intended for writing.