Appendix

Script 1

M Is this Hwaseong Fortress?

W Yes, Ravi. It's a UNESCO World Heritage Site.

King Jeongjo of the Joseon dynasty built it to honor his father.

M Wow, he must have really loved his father.

W Well, he actually lost his father when he was just eleven,
so he probably really missed his father.

M How sad. It reminds me of the Taj Mahal in India.

W The Taj Mahal? Why?

M Emperor Shah Jahan built it to honor his wife, who died while giving birth to their child.

W Wow, I didn't know that. That's quite a story.

M It sure is.

Script 2

M How was your trip to Korea?

W It was amazing! When I was there,

I saw a really cool traditional dance performance by masked dancers.

M That does sound really cool. What were the masks made of?

W They were made of wood and painted with bright colors.

Each mask represented a different character.

M It reminds me of the Venice Carnival in Italy.

W Exactly. They both involve wearing masks,
but the cultural significance is quite different.

M In what way?

W The Korean mask dance explores social issues through song and movement, whereas the Venice Carnival is more of a celebration of art and culture.

M I see. I would love to see the Korean mask dance sometime.
