276 You must cite the author (whom) you are quoting whether you are directly quoting the author or paraphrasing the quote.

277 Newborn babies are immune to many diseases because they have antibodies they received from their mothers, although this immunity only lasts about a year.

278 Twenty years from now, you will be more disappointed by the things you did not do than by the ones you did.

279 The time you should repair the roof is when the sun is shining.

280 The reason most people never reach their goals is that they don't define them, or ever seriously consider them as believable or achievable.

281 Depictions of unhealthily thin women in film, television, and advertising constantly bombard us, distorting the way we see one another and how we define a “healthy” body.
282 In science, the credit goes to the man who convinces the world, not the man to whom the idea first occurs.

283 Ultimately, the only power to which man should aspire is that which he exercises over himself.

284 If technology is created that uses less energy, that should have the same basic effect as increasing the total amount of energy available.

285 Forrest Gump is the story of a naive young man from Alabama with a good heart who keeps stumbling into success in spite of himself.

286 The heel is the part of the body that receives the most shock upon impact, especially when walking and running.

287 The time will come when you will doubt everything you stand for, but you must push forward and never stop.
288 Second-hand smoke is the smoke inhaled by people who are not themselves smoking but who are near others who are smoking.

289 We stand in proper awe of a man whose thoughts move on heights far beyond our range, whose achievements can be measured only by the few who are able to follow his reasoning and challenge his conclusions.

290 Every single person we know who is successful at what they do is successful because they love doing it.

291 Start something you can do with pleasure which requires active physical movement for your sound body and mind.

292 We vote for the person who we think expresses our interests best.

293 My father always did what he supposed was morally right and always voted the way that he believed was right for society as a whole.
294 A person eats around 60,000 pounds’ worth of food during his life, which is the equivalent of six elephants.

295 The Korean soccer players, who won the country’s first medal in the sport with a victory over Japan for bronze, came back from the Olympics with glory.

296 The Caribbean has been strongly influenced by African culture, but credit must be given to the neighboring countries, which contributed to the rich culture / the Caribbean now has.

297 Life is a series of experiences, each one of which makes us bigger, even though sometimes it is hard to realize this.

298 Last summer I visited Broadway, where the curtain goes up more than 10,000 times in a year.

299 I wonder what is going to happen on May 5th, when all planets of our solar system are in a line.

300 The more you like yourself, the less you are like anyone else, which makes you unique.

301 The secret of genius is to carry the spirit of the child into old age, which means never losing your enthusiasm.

302 The motor of our ingenuity is the question “Does it have to be like this?”, from which arise political reforms, scientific developments, improved relationships, and better books.