Certification

Certification

Chargepod is both UL and CE certified for safety and reliability under the United States and European standards.

Unauthorized changes or modifications to this device may impair the user's ability to operate this device and will void the warranty.

Introduction

Chargepod is designed for use with small electronic devices such as cell phones, Bluetooth® headsets, PDA's, and MP3 players. It allows users to charge up to six devices at the same time. Charge time may vary based on the particular devices under charge and battery charge status. Typically, this unit can charge six devices, as defined, in approximately three hours (average).

NOTE: This model is not designed for charging notebook computers or other high current devices. (See Technical Specifications Table on page 8)

Chargepod works by using manufacturer-specific adapters to connect to your devices. Adapters for most consumer electronics manufacturers worldwide are available for purchase under the Callpod® brand.
